CALLIDE POWER STATION THE SERVICES UNION MEETS WITH MEMBERS

26 MAY 2021

The Services Union met with members and employees at Callide Power Station this morning to discuss the fallout from yesterday's fire.

The Services Union is the major union on site.

Secretary of The Services Union Neil Henderson said he was pleased to see that CS Energy confirmed at the meeting they will be working through a plan towards a safe return to work for members.

“This is good news and so is the collaborative approach CS Energy is taking in regard to ensuring workers are safe and their jobs are not at risk,” Mr Henderson said.

“Our Union has been constantly in touch with our Workplace Delegates and we will continue working with all our members to ensure they are supported over the coming days and weeks.”

“Our members work hard each and every day at Callide to deliver essential frontline electricity services across Queensland and we look forward to continuing to work cooperatively with CS Energy.”
